The screenshot displays a web browser window with a document viewer. At the top, there is a menu bar with 'File', 'Edit', 'View', 'Go', 'Tools', and 'Help'. Below the menu is a toolbar with various icons for navigation and editing. The main content area shows a document with a search bar on the left and a navigation pane on the right. The search bar contains the text 'chemistry is an important stepping stone in harnessing its...'. The navigation pane has tabs for 'Details', 'Notes', and 'Contents'. A message at the top of the document area reads 'These details need reviewing. You can mark them as correct, Details are Correct'. The document content is partially visible, showing the word 'chemistry' and 'Author Keywords'. The browser's address bar and other interface elements are also visible.

The screenshot shows the Mendeley Data website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Mendeley logo on the left and links for Feed, Library, Suggest, Groups, Datasets (which is highlighted), Careers, and Funding on the right. A user profile for 'David' is also visible. Below the navigation bar is a dark header with links: Find Research Data, My Datasets, New Dataset, and FAQ. The main content area features a large yellow banner with the text 'Discover Mendeley Data' and a search bar. Below the banner is a section titled 'Create a Dataset' with a grid of colorful icons representing different data types. The bottom part of the screenshot shows a list of dataset entries with various colored bars and text.
